The mission of Rotary International is to provide service to others, promote integrity, and advance world understanding, goodwill, and peace through its fellowship of business, professional, and community leaders.

During the great depression, a US Rotarian devised four basic rules that he used to rescue a failing business. These rules were called the Four-Way Test, which has been embraced by Rotary International since 1943. Today, the Four-Way Test is considered a vital element of Rotary International service.

As part of the scholarship application process, the Rotary Club of Stanwood & Camano Island requests applicants to research the Four-Way Test and describe how they have applied these four principles in what they have done and continue to do.
